Boulder County ANIMAL CONTROL

Boulder County Sheriff's Office

Boulder County Animal Control, under the direction of the Boulder County Sheriff, services all unincorporated areas of Boulder County. These laws are intended to protect animals, as well as citizens in Boulder County.

For information on animal laws inside cities or towns, contact those respective jurisdictions.

COUNTY LAWS

RABIES: All dogs and cats must be vaccinated for rabies by a licensed veterinarian at three months of age, one year later, and every three years thereafter.

RABIES TAG: Dogs must wear a current rabies tag when a dog is off the owner or keeper's property. Rabies tags are issued by the veterinarian inoculating the dog. Tags are frequently used to locate the owners of lost dogs.

BITES: All animal bites must be reported to the Animal Control Unit as soon as possible. Any dog, cat or ferret that has bitten a person so as to cause any abrasion and/or break of the skin must be confined to the owner's residence, a veterinarian's office or a Humane Society for ten (10) days of observation.

BARKING: The owner or keeper of a dog must prevent their dog from disturbing the peace of any other person by unprovoked, loud, persistent, and habitual barking, howling, or yelping.

RUNNING AT LARGE: Any Dog in the unincorporated area of Boulder County must be under control when off the owner's premises, or inside a vehicle or similarly physically confined so that said dog is without access to passers-by. A dog is presumed to be at large if injury, damage or trespass has occurred even if said dog is under control. The Towns of Superior and Lyons have their own regulations.

Owners of dogs found running at large are subject to either a warning or a summons and are responsible for the payment of any impoundment fees.

CONTROL: Control means under leash control or, when accompanied by a person, within view and hearing and under electronic or voice control. Voice control means immediate and reliable obedience to any voice or sound command given by the owner or handler.

VICIOUS DOGS AT LARGE: A dog which has bitten or attempted to bite any person, without provocation, or has bitten a domestic or wild animal without being attacked or threatened with attack first is considered vicious. The owner or keeper can be issued a summons and be held responsible for damages incurred.

TREATMENT OF ANIMALS: The Animal Control Unit will investigate any complaint that is received about cruelty to animals, extreme temperature exposure, improper care and treatment, unsafe tethering, or unsafe transporting. If a violation has occurred, then the Officer will follow-up on the situation until a favorable outcome is achieved or the animal is impounded and the responsible party charged with the violation. If the situation is extreme and rises to the level of Cruelty to Animals (C.R.S. 18-9-202) the suspect will be charged accordingly.

STATE LAWS
