The Colorado Volunteer Mobilizer (CVM)

The CVM is a centralized database of medical professionals, paraprofessionals, and administrative volunteers who can be accessed by local MRC units to train, exercise, credential, organize, notify, and activate volunteers in Colorado. These trained volunteers may also choose to help at the national level. For more information, please visit <https://covolunteers.state.co.us/volunteermobilizer>

Medical Reserve Corps of Boulder County

Your expertise is needed.

During recent national and regional disasters, well-meaning residents tried to offer volunteer assistance, but they were turned away because they lacked emergency response training, security clearance, and proof of credentials.

After review of our local needs, Boulder County Public Health decided to establish the Medical Reserve Corps of Boulder County (MRCBC) to enhance our local emergency preparedness efforts and coordinate the extensive volunteer response that will be needed during a public health emergency.

Our mission is to establish teams of trained, local volunteer medical, public health, and safety professionals who can contribute their skills and expertise during times of community and national need.

Message from the Acting Surgeon General

"The men and women of the MRC are strengthening communities and improving our public health infrastructure - all over the USA everyday. For all you have done, all you have given, and for the service you will continue to provide to fellow citizens in need of help, I thank you."

Rear Admiral Steven K. Galson, M.D., M.P.H.
Acting Surgeon General

Who can volunteer?

The Medical Reserve Corps of Boulder County (MRCBC) is looking for two types of volunteers:

- Medical and health care professionals from all health occupations, including those who are actively practicing, retired, or non-practicing.
- Support volunteers who do not perform medical care, but who are essential to emergency health care response.

What does the Medical Reserve Corps do?

Medical Reserve Corps volunteers will be utilized to support public health activities in the event of an emergency. Emergency clinics and medical shelters will be set up when a large amount of medication, vaccines, or treatment must be administered to the community. Volunteers may serve in a variety of positions, including:

- Vaccinator
- Medical Screener
- Mental Health Consultant
- Health Educator
- Translator
- Support and Technical Staff

What is my commitment?

While all Medical Reserve Corps of Boulder County volunteers are encouraged to take advantage of trainings offered to them, the new member orientation and online courses for Incident Command System (ICS) and National Incident Management System (NIMS) disaster training are required. Additional trainings may include radio communications, pandemic flu/mass prophylaxis and self-care in disasters.

In the event of an emergency, volunteers will be activated according to the county's emergency preparedness plan, and every effort will be made to place volunteers in positions based on individual trainings, expertise, and comfort level.

How do I volunteer?

It's easy!

- Go to www.BoulderCountyMRC.org and follow the links to the MRCBC volunteer application, OR
- Complete and mail or fax the form on the other side of this brochure, and we will contact you.
