SPECIFICATIONS

Introduction

"For the first time in our nation's history, the Federal Government has made it a goal that 40 percent of the overall benefits of certain Federal investments flow to disadvantaged communities that are marginalized, underserved, and overburdened by pollution. President Biden made this historic commitment when he signed Executive Order 14008 within days of taking office." -The White House, January 27, 2021

As a response to this national goal and in preparation for federal grant dollars that are subject to J40 requirements, local governments are evaluating current systems and beginning to build out new systems that center equity and justice. The evaluation and implementation of Justice40 objectives that address the needs of a community should be informed by multiple stakeholders within the community. Therefore, creating budgetary guidance and a spending evaluation framework informed by community stakeholders is critical to fostering transparency and trust in the approach taken to address this important objective.

As government agencies review internal budgets with an eye toward Justice 40 goals, there are more questions than answers as we unpack current expenditures. These questions include, but are not limited to, the following:

- How do local governments bring meaning to the Justice40 goal and implement this in a standardized or cohesive way?
 - Should we work toward developing a template/approach with clear objectives rooted in equity to guide other local governments as we all try to implement the J40 Initiative?

- Is there support regionally to co-create budgetary guidance and an accountability framework with key stakeholders and impacted community members? And what should that guidance and framework look like?
- Should we establish a local J40 advisory board/ oversight board/ steering committee, and if so, who should constitute members of that board?
- How might we ensure Justice40 principles guide/framework cover more than federal grant dollars and be a goal for all county budgets?
 - Should a framework cover more than 'climate and sustainability' departments across county governments?
 - o Should we conduct an annual audit of all budgets?

Project Background

During his first week in office, President Joe Biden issued Executive Order 14008, Tackling the Climate Crisis at Home and Abroad. Section 223 of EO 14008 established the Justice40 Initiative, which directs 40% of the overall benefits of certain Federal investments — including investments in clean energy and energy efficiency; clean transit; affordable and sustainable housing; training and workforce development; the remediation and reduction of legacy pollution; and the development of clean water infrastructure — to flow to disadvantaged communities (as defined by Climate and Economic Justice Screening Tool).

All Justice40 covered programs are required to engage in stakeholder consultation and ensure that community stakeholders are meaningfully involved in determining program benefits. Covered programs are also required to report data on the benefits directed to disadvantaged communities.

Boulder County and Partner Jurisdictions are positioned to receive tens of millions of Federal funding subject to Justice 40. Heretofore, Boulder County's regional partnerships have utilized the Colorado State definition of "disproportionately impacted communities" set in statute in HB23-1233, as a more granular geographic identifier for our program plans.

There are several governance models that state and local governments have begun to embrace to plan and implement Justice40 goals: Working groups, climate emergency mobilization directors, equity advisory committees, climate equity steering committees, and Justice40 oversight committees. Community planning, implementation, and evaluation of Justice40 objectives that address the needs of a community will not happen on their own. Each community will find the model that is right for its residents, but having governance in place is critical.

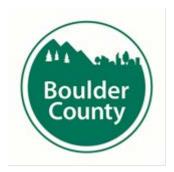

Scope Of Work

The Boulder County Office of Sustainability Climate Action and Resilience (OSCAR) seek to explore answers to the questions above in partnership with other municipalities and organizations across the region that are grappling with the same questions.

- We plan to hire a consultant to support this process and to undertake the following work:
 - Review current practices and insights from subject matter experts across the nation and internationally to better define how to best approach the Justice40 objective;
 - Share these current practices through a presentation or workshop designed to provide community-based insights tailored to Colorado's unique context;
 - Facilitate a process to co-create a standardized approach to budgetary audits as well as a transparent way to share findings from these audits with community;
 - Develop and execute a community engagement process to ensure that community leaders and the public are meaningfully involved in what constitutes the "benefits" of a program.
 - o Create an Iterative Process to continually incorporate feedback.
 - Compile a comprehensive recommendation document for Boulder County and Partners. The document should include:
 - Suggestions on new structures for J40 oversight, guidance, and/or authority
 - Suggestions on transparency, practices, and engagement with Disproportionately Impacted Communities
 - Suggestions and recommendations on budget guidelines, formalized definitions, and other policy considerations.

a. Breach: Either Party's failure to perform any of its material obligations under this Contract, in whole or in part or in a timely or satisfactory manner, will be a breach. The institution of proceedings under any bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization or similar law, by or against Contractor, or the appointment of a receiver or similar officer for Contractor or any of its property, which is not vacated or fully stayed within thirty (30) days after the institution of such proceeding, will also constitute a breach. Any items remaining on County property after the Expiration Date or the effective date of termination, if earlier, will be deemed abandoned by Contractor.
